

Download Mouse Models Of Human Cancer

Ongoing studies in many species seek to understand the origins, architecture and consequences of phenotypic variation under normal and dysfunctional conditions, with the aim of identifying targets ...The Mouse Tumor Biology (MTB) Database supports the use of the mouse as a model system of human cancers by providing access to information on and data for:
The Mouse Trap: Can One Lab Animal Cure Every Disease?An international group of researchers gained insights into how similarities and differences between mice and people arise from their genomes. The findings will help scientists better understand how and when mouse models can best be used to study human biology and disease. Researchers often turn to ...